Home and Vicinity.

—Snow and sleighing.
 —Measles are plenty. Several cases in town.

—The Roxbury Times is now edited by E. S. Tompkins.

—Nelson Mattice, formerly a Gilboa boy, has — See matrimonial department.

—Our readers will notice a slight change in the make-up of our paper this week.

—Misses Mattie and Edith Shaffer, of Blenheim, have been visiting at D. K. Frisbie's.

—George's Minstrels gave a show at Prattsville last Saturday evening to a full house.

—To I. Conrow:—The squirrel would travel 92 feet, 10 inches and a half.

—George's Minstrels will give an entertainment at Broome Center, on Saturday evening of this week.

—A pound party will be held at Strykersville next Thursday evening. One-half cent pound for females.

—The Sunday School Association, of the towns of Gilboa and Conesville will hold a session in this village Jan. 26.

—Frank E. Richtmyer, of Flat Creek, has rented the Abram Richtmyer farm in the lower district for three years.

—G. A. Hartwell, our enterprising miller, has just added a new wheat steamer and other improvements to his mill.

—Robert Velie, of Cornell Hollow, lost a child last Sunday by diphtheria. He has another child very sick with the same disease.

—We understand that Milo Warner has rented the Abram Richtmyer farm in the lower district for three years.

—Mrs. Ozias Stevens had the misfortune to fall and break one of her ribs last Monday morning. She is getting along nicely under the care of Dr. Zeh.

—In traveling between this village and Blenheim on the main road there is a house that you have to pass three times. All sides of the house are presented to view except the bottom.

—There are too many parents who don't care much whether their children are in school or not, and don't keep them there steadily. Some, in villages, allow them to be in the street much of the time, learning many evil things. Such boys are on a downward road. They may become sharp, but they will be ignorant of what will do them most good, and lack what will do them more good than knowledge, good moral habits.

—The Smith trial has ended, and the Decker boy mystery remains unsolved. Time alone can only disclose the facts, should they ever be disclosed. None can now accuse Smith of the crime, neither can Smith nor his friends blame the people for wanting to know how the boy came to his death. There now remains but one thing to be done about the matter, and that is, to drop the subject on all sides and "chin up."

—While at Schoharie last week, we had a very pleasant conversation by telephone with a Mr. Shoulis, of Bernville, thirteen miles distant. We hope that another year will see Gilboa connected with the County seat by telephone. By our present telegraph system, messages have to go by the way of Kingston and Albany, and often take several hours for transmission, while if we were connected direct there would be no occasion for delay.

—Why don't the Literary Talent and Society of our active little town, make some move this season in the lecture and entertainment way? We would be glad to see the intelligent young men of the town exhibit more spirit and energy and arrange for a course of lectures or, at least one or more during the winter months. Valuable instruction and much that is interesting to every one may be had and enjoyed in this manner, and at a trifling cost. This is an age of thought and knowledge and whatever contributes to the improvement of the mind is a positive gain and advantage to each of us.

—The man of ideas, the man of skill and learning is a power in this enlightened age, and therefore the platform lecturer as a popular educator is most useful and valuable. The lecture which combines stimulating thought and information with apt illustration and pleasing anecdote is the most profitable sort of entertainment we have of.

—Very little is said in this town about the Court House question. We have talked with a number of tax-payers and farmers, and if from what they all say, we are to foretell the result of the coming election, we can prophesy but one way, viz: An almost sold vote against the proposed change. The town of Conesville seems to stand about the same on this question.

—The trial of Hiram L. Smith for the murder of David Decker came off last week, and resulted in the acquittal of the prisoner. Ever since the sudden disappearance of the Decker boy, public opinion has seemed to be turning against Smith, yet the prosecution failed to prove anything that could cast a shadow of conviction on the minds of an unprejudiced jury. In summing up the case, Mr. Krum, counsel for the defense, made a very eloquent speech, and when the verdict was rendered "Not Guilty," the thronged court room presented one of those impressive and touching scenes, never to be forgotten; a time when hearts too full for utterance, overflow and tears of joy start from the eyes of sympathetic humanity.

A purse of about $200 was raised in the court room, and presented to Smith, after which he and his family were conveyed to their home by horses and carriage furnished by a kind citizen of Schoharie. On the first day and evening of February the friends of Mr. Smith will give him a benefit party at Smithton. Oysters and other refreshments will be served, and a band of music will be in attendance.

Conesville.
 —Geo. Snyder is doing a good business in the blacksmith line.
 —David Mattice is fixing over his bar room putting it in good style.
 —John Bloodgood intends to start for Omaha and Plattsmouth, Nebraska, soon.
 —Jennie S. Bloodgood has gone to Oak Hill where she intends to spend the winter.
 —John Lorton, of Durham, gave a striking lecture on temperance Saturday night.
 —Rev. Race is to change his meetings now being held here to Manokill, after this week.
 —Wm. Smith has taken the contract to cut and clear 15 acres of wood land for Geo. VanDyke.
 —Mary Richtmyer has returned home from Cairo, where she has been spending several months.
 —There will be a donation at David Bartleys, for the benefit of Rev. Charles Mace, on Thursday night.
 —The cooper shop and barn of C. Russell which were burned on Monday night last, is a severe loss for him as he had just got things arranged so that he could do business. The people should do all they can to help him, as, should he leave this place, we would lose one of our best citizens.
 —Examination in spelling in Dist. No. 7 town of Conesville. Below appear the names of those spelling more than 75 per cent:

Manokill.
 —Mrs. D. T. McGarry is visiting friends at Stamford.
 —Sarah Bull, wife of John Brink, was buried Monday the 16th.
 —Singing school every Saturday evening at the M. E. Church. David S. Clark instructor.
 —Rev. J. P. Race expects to begin a series of meetings at this place, on Tuesday night 24th inst.
 —Joseph Dingman's wife, who has been dangerously ill with diphtheria is now improving slowly, under the careful treatment of Dr. J. T. Benheim.
 —The Sand Bank school, Dist. No. 2, is progressing finely under the skillful management of Prof. E. Hammond, Jr. Satisfaction is given to all parties interested.
 —If you want a nobby cutter, carriage, lumber wagon or any farming utensils, call on D. H. Smith, of Manokill, agent for a firm at Utica. He is now prepared to sell them at bottom prices; and the best satisfaction given. Dave is a grand, good fellow and deserves the patronage of the people.
 —A temperance lecture was held at the M. E. Church, in Manokill, on Sunday evening. After singing, D. T. McGarry the chairman announced Prof. Lorton, of Durham, who gave a very able lecture on the cause of temperance and the curse of intemperance. Every one seemed well pleased and should Mr. Lorton come over again, which he promises to do, there will be a crowd out to hear him.

Stamford.
 —B. S. Mayham, of So. Gilboa, has killed his ice house, and the cakes are seven inches thick.
 —A horse disease known as Pink Eye, has made its appearance in Stamford. The Delaware House team is sick with it.
 —Patrick Graffey has sold his farm at So. Gilboa to David Zeigler, of Gilboa, and will probably locate on a farm at So. Kortright.
 —M. Mahon, of So. Gilboa, recently purchased a black sheep, and the next morning after his purchase let it loose among his flock. The flock, thinking a big, black dog had been let loose to prey upon them, took to their heels and scattered in every direction over the hills and far away. It was several days before Mr. McMahon could get his meek animals together again.—Mirror.

Sunday School Association.

FOR SALE.—One colt, coming 3 years old, and forty skips of bees. For particulars inquire of W. E. Brown, West Conesville.

Her Own Experience.
 The friend of ours who recommended your "Favorite Remedy" had herself suffered a stroke of paralysis, which rendered her entire right side powerless, and, in a word, left her as helpless as an infant. But Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured her and she is now able to do her own work. The above is quoted from a letter from a gentleman in Elmira, N. Y., to Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y. You need a bottle in the house.

A HAPPY WEDDING.

It was a daring act of the young man to dash up the blazing staircase, and make his way through a fire and smoke to the fourth story of the burning hotel, where the excited host suddenly remembered one of the guests—the only one who had not effected a timely escape—was quartered.

A loud cheer greeted Austin Douglas, as with singed hair, and face and hands scorched and blistered, he reappeared bearing in his arms a closely wrapped burden. As blanket after blanket was removed, the spectators pressed forward, each eager to catch a glimpse of the beautiful young lady—surely it was for nothing less—for whom the gallant stranger had risked his life.

There was a mutter of surprise, if not of disappointment, when the removal of the last wrap revealed—not a fair ting beauty looking up gratefully in her deliverer's face, still handsome in spite of the traces left upon it by the recent fiery ordeal—but the form of a little shrivelled old man, puffing like a porpoise to regain his breath. Before he could do so sufficiently to thank his preserver, the latter had disappeared in the crowd.

His uncle, Ansel Bourne, who had been a father to him since his own father died, had called him into the library that morning, and without much preface signified his desire that Austin should accept for a wife the daughter of a very old friend of the uncle's whom he was about to name when the young man interrupted with a flat refusal.

Mr. Bourne had been a kind benefactor to Austin, whom he had reared and educated unsparing of expense; and considering all he had done for the young man, and the handsome fortune he would one day leave him, the old gentleman, not unnaturally, felt entitled to exercise a certain degree of authority, now for the first time disputed.

One word led to another, till at last Mr. Bourne grew angry, and to some bitter accusation of ingratitude added a very distinct threat of altering his will in case his nephew persisted in his disobedience.

At this Austin's temper rose in turn. "I shall never forget," he replied, "my many obligations to you; but I cannot permit them to be added to if the payment exacted is the surrender of my own manhood. From this hour I leave your home never to return."

It was on the night of the same day, while on his travels to seek his fortune, that Austin Douglas perilled his life, not then particularly precious in his sight, to save that of an unknown stranger.

We shall not delay to speculate about the motive that led Austin to direct his travels toward a little country town, with a visit to which, a few months before, some warmly cherished memories were associated. It was there, he had first seen Constance Waring, and that first sight had settled his fate. In short, he felt desperate in love; and when he whispered the secret to Constance, and asked her to promise to be his, she had not said nay.

Constance Waring, her father having married a second time, and she and her stepmother not getting on well together, had gone to live with a maiden aunt, her deceased mother's sister, in the town where she and Austin first met.

To pay a parting visit to his sweetheart, and fill her of his altered prospects, he esteemed a simple act of justice. When their love-making began he was the acknowledged heir-apparent to his uncle's wealth. Now, he had nothing but his own exertions to count upon, and Constance might be of the mind that that was a circumstance which materially altered the case. At any rate, it was but fair to lay the truth before her and leave it to herself to decide.

When Austin made his call, he found Constance in even greater trouble than himself. Her father had come a few days before to apprise her of an offer of marriage made her by an old friend of his on behalf of a young kinsman of the latter—an offer which Mr. Waring had already accepted, counting his daughter's inclinations as of little consequence as Ansel Bourne had those of his nephew.

When Constance tried to expostulate against this summary disposal of herself—at least to beg a brief respite—her father's imperious temper lost all bounds. He gave her five minutes to decide between his permanent displeasure and yielding to his commands.

"Surely you would not force me to marry a man I cannot love," she pleaded piteously.

"How do you know you can't till you've seen him?"—unless, indeed, there's another—"

Mr. Waring did not finish. A tell-tale blush mantled Constance's cheeks, at sight of which her father's face grew purple.

"Give me your answer, instantly!" he demanded with vehemence. "Do you accept the husband I offer you or not?"

"I—I cannot, father," she faltered, looking beseechingly through her tears. "Henceforth, then, you are no daughter of mine! Go, sarve or beg with whatever vaubond adventurer you have chosen to bestow your heart upon—if, indeed," he added tauntingly, "he will care now to accept so profitless a gift."

With these cruel and bitter words Stephen Waring turned his back upon his daughter, and she knew too well there was little hope of his relenting.

Such was the substance of the recital Austin heard from Constance's lips; and strange to say, instead of looking sorrowful, his face actually seemed to brighten. "I have already had an offer of employment in the counting-house of one of my father's old friends, to whom I telegraphed this morning," he said; "the salary is not large, but I think two might live on it."

Rising, he took Constance's hand, and looked earnestly into the deep blue eyes in which the tears were beginning to gather.

"Shall we be married, dearest?" he whispered: "we are left to be our own masters now."

It was like the offer of a friendly haven to a tempest-tossed mariner. Constance did not speak, but the timid pressure with which she returned the warm clasp of her lover's hand, gave back no uncertain answer.

It was on a bright spring morning that two elderly gentlemen were seen hurrying by separate paths toward a little church in the outskirts of a country village.

"Is that you, Waring?" cried Ansel Bourne, as they neared each other. "I trust it's a pleasant errand than mine that has brought you to this out-of-the-way place."

"I don't know what you call a pleasant errand," growled the other; "my jade of a daughter whom I promised you as a wife for your nephew, and whom, for disobedience, I told to go her way and wed whom she liked, it seems has taken me at my word, and is to be married to some jackanapes here this morning—unless, luckily, I'm in time to put a stop to it!"

Before Ansel Bourne had time to answer, or the other to pass on, a handsome young man with a beautiful young lady on his arm, followed by the clergyman and a small group of friends, came out of the church door.

Constance Waring started and shrank back at the sight of her father; but before he had time to give vent to the angry speech that was rising to his lips, his eyes fell on his daughter's companion.

It was his turn to start. The handsome youth was the young man to whom he owed his life! For the little old man whom Austin Douglas had carried down the burning staircase, wrapped in so many blankets, was no other than Stephen Waring.

"Why didn't you tell me, you dog," cried Ansel Bourne to his nephew, "that you had already asked out a wife for yourself, or at least wait till I had told you whom I had chosen? But no—you must needs go bobbing off at a few hasty words from a silly old uncle, and leave him to track you all over the country? You don't deserve to be forgiven, even if you have obeyed my wishes without intending it."

It was hard to tell which of the two old gentlemen was the more right at the early little wedding breakfast, to which Uncle Ansel invited the party at the village inn.

Miss or Mrs.?

Advanced ladies make a great point of discerning their husband's Christian name and using their own individual ones. Mrs. John Brown is not distinctive enough. They make it Mrs. Euphemia L. P. Brown. Some even scorn to prefix even the Miss or M's. The World, a few days ago ventured to criticize a certain lady who had published a book for married or spinster, and was sharply picked up for it by a correspondent who asks: "Why should a woman advertise the fact that she has been married any more than a man?" "Simply because a man is 'Mr.' whether he is married or no, whereas a spinster is 'Miss' and a married woman 'Mrs.' and," as the World remarks, "much confusion is caused daily, both in literature and business, by female authors and correspondents neglecting to indicate to which prefix they are entitled."

Universal Language.

A French litterateur of the name of Sudre announces a plan for the complete reversal of the divine decision delivered at the Tower of Babel and the formation of a universal language out of the seven notes of music, do, re, mi, fa, sol, la, si, which are pronounced in the same way by all peoples. All the words in his universal vocabulary would be made with compounds of these notes. The meaning attached to the simple notes themselves would be: do, no; re, and; mi, or; fa, to; sol, it; la, the; si, yes. The feminine would be formed by doubling final vowels e. g. misifa, a husband; misifa, a wife; and plurals by doubling the consonants in final syllables, as fff, a girl; fff, girls. M. Sudre has decided that the adjective shall always follow the substantive; and according to the dictionary which he has compiled, the sentence "We have an incalculable government" would read: "Doddo sisolfusol lassidore." M. Sudre is a very interesting person, and he should be encouraged.

She Excused Him.

When Dr. Stone was pastor of Park Street Church he resided in Brookline and rejoiced in a pair of spanking boys. On one occasion the doctor had made a bad start with a prospect of being a little late to morning service, and as a consequence the last span were let out a notch or two extra. In front of him was the family carriage of one of his parishioners, a mother in Israel who loved and revered her minister. He shot by at a 2:35 gait, and the venerable lady said: "Doesn't that reckless person know that this is the Lord's day?" "Why, grandmother," said a young man with her, "that is Dr. Stone." "Is it?" was the reply, "why, the dear man! I suppose he couldn't hold them."

A MOTHER'S JOY, HURRAH!
A Wife's Gratitude to Him who has afforded her the means of once more enjoying life.

The following pleasant letter was received by Dr. D. Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., and signed "Old Schenectady":

"I procured a bottle of Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" and my wife used it with the best results. She has no more headache or pain in the side. Indeed, the medicine seemed to have an almost magical effect, and she feels very grateful to you for your kind advice, and especially for the 'Favorite Remedy.' We shall be glad to recommend it to all women who may be suffering from any of the ills peculiar to the sex. It is all you claim for it."

It may be in place to mention as pertinent to the above letter, that Dr. Kennedy, the proprietor of "Favorite Remedy" located in the City of Schenectady soon after his graduation, and went from there to war. Some of the most cheering letters he receives are from his old acquaintances in that place, many of whom know from experience what "Favorite Remedy" can do for disease. There all the Doctor's old friends will believe him when he says that "Favorite Remedy" is a specific for Liver and Kidney Complaints, Constipation, Diseases of the blood and Urinary organs, and all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females. Write to Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., and state your case, or ask your druggist for "Favorite Remedy," for sale by all druggists:

Wait a Little Longer.
So we are told sometimes. Things will come out all right, people say, if we wait awhile. The longer you wait the worse it is. It's no use to plant corn in November. Do you "feel a little bad?" Strike the trouble right away. Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is what you want. It will at once relieve the Bowels, stimulate the liver, and cool the skin. Take one dollar in your hand and stop at your druggists, or write to the Doctor, at Rondout, N. Y.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 31st day of March, 1875, executed by William Kingsly and Minerva B. Kingsly, his wife, of the town of Gilboa, county of Schoharie, State of New York, to Roswell Losee of the same place, and recorded in the County Clerk's office of the county of Schoharie, on the 19th day of April, 1875, at 5 o'clock and 15 minutes, P. M., in book No. 31 of mortgages on page 15.
And, whereas the said Roswell Losee died on or about the 24th day of August, 1881, leaving his last will and testament relating to both real and personal estate, and appointing Marilla B. Gray and Nelson J. Ryer, executrix and executor thereof, which said last will and testament was on or about the 17th day of October, 1881, duly admitted to probate before the Hon. H. B. Matheis, Surrogate of the county of Greene, at his office in the village of Catskill, in said county of Greene, and letters testamentary issued in due form by the said surrogate to the said Marilla B. Gray and Nelson J. Ryer, on or about the said 17th day of October, 1881, who thereupon, both duly qualified, and entered upon the discharge of their duties as such.
And, whereas, the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice is the sum of five hundred dollars of principal and already six dollars and twenty-seven cents of interest, making five hundred and ninety-six dollars and twenty-seven cents of principal and interest, and leaving secured, unpaid and still to become due on said mortgage, nine hundred dollars of principal and interest thereon from the first day of April, 1881.
Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and duly recorded with the same as aforesaid, and in pursuance of the statute in such case, made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction at the Hotel kept by John D. Church, in the village and town of Gilboa, county of Schoharie, and state of New York, on the 22nd day of March, 1882, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day.
The said premises are described in said mortgage substantially as follows:—"All that certain farm or lot of land now owned by said William Kingsly, bounded on the north by the lands in possession of Deless Ellarson and F. H. Clapper, on the east by lands of Elisha A. Kingsly, on the south by the lands of George Wyckoff and George W. Burton, on the west by lands of Nathan E. Wyckoff, containing about ninety acres of land, be the same more or less.
Dated Gilboa, December 22nd, 1881.
MARILLA B. GRAY and NELSON J. RYER, Executrix and Executor of the last will and testament of Roswell Losee, deceased, Mortgagee.
